

I am in favor of maintaining consumer privacy and limiting telemarketing even though I have been a community banker for 35 years. While it is not banks that generally misuse information I still maintain that my right to privacy is higher than a businesses right to market to be. There are many marketing channels that can be used to make me aware of a bank's products without access to my private information.